Following a plan of textbook adoption recommended by the state board of education, the board of education of the city of Salem today is expected to reach the half mark of the books used by students.

The board of education, meeting Monday night, adopted a list of textbooks for mathematics and English courses.

Supt. E. S. Kerr explained that the program will give the board a half ownership of the texts next year and in the ensuing school year, a three-quarter interest. The board will own all of its text books by the fourth year.

Pupils in Salem public schools, after two more years, will not be required to purchase books. The studying necessities of the students then will be pencils, tablets and other small similar items.

Study Text Revisions

Early in the year committees of teachers were appointed to study textbook revisions. These committees are:

Mathematics: Junior High school—Martha McCready, Hazel Douglas, Marie Roth, Walter Regal and Alice Berger.

English: Elementary schools—Mabelle Sharpnack, Elizabeth Horne, Alma Peterson, Dorothy Smith.

Junior High school: Margaret Chase, Maude Hart and Effie Cameron.

High school: Evelyn Early, H. C. Lehman and C. M. Brautigan.

Last night the board approved the adoption of mathematics and English texts in accordance with findings of the committees.

The texts, all of them late publications, include:

For grade 7, Mathematics for Today; Grade 8, Mathematics for Today; Grade 9, Algebra for Today; Grade 9, English Activities; Grade 7, Prose and Poetry Journeys; Grade 8, Prose and Poetry Journeys.

Grade 9, Adventures in Reading; Grade 10, English in Daily Use; Grade 10, Hidden Treasures in Literature; Grade 11, Speak! Read! Write!; grade 11-12, Literature and Life, books 11 and 12.

Plan Summer Classes

The board at its meeting last night approved the use of a limited number of classrooms by members of the regular teaching staff who may be interested in conducting summer school classes without expense to the board.

A short study was made by board members at the meeting of a factory report on the condition of two boilers in the High school building which need repairing.

Miss Elizabeth Steer, school nurse, reported 145 visits to homes during May, in addition to 111 in hospital inspections, and schools visited 47 times. Eight visits to physicians were recommended and 42 consultations with teachers made. One hundred and five first aid cases were listed. Miss Steer also assisted with the pre-school clinic in Salineville recently.

EAST PALESTINE, June 2.—Approximately 600 employees of plants No. 1 and No. 4 of the W. S. George Pottery Co. here failed to return to work this morning after notices had been served on two workers by the plant management.

One of the workers was Enoch Faulkner, mayor of East Palestine, a kilnman, and head of the East Palestine pottery union. Neither the plant management nor the local had any statements.

Workers in the two other plants remained on duty.

Parents have been asked to bring their children to the main entrance of the High school building.

Temperature Below Normal

The year to date is 14 degrees short of normal temperature and 1.70 inches short of normal rainfall.

The wettest May ever recorded was in 1929 when there were 6.50 inches of rainfall. The driest was in 1911 when the total precipitation was .68 inch but this may be accounted for since this same month was the warmest ever registered, with a mean temperature of 62.6 degrees. The coolest May was in 1917 when the mean temperature was 51.5 degrees.

Sunshine, warmth and sufficient moisture during the past month caused all vegetation to have rapid growth, bringing the usual backward spring period up to normal, Copeland said. Wheat promises a more than average yield and oats,

Oversubscription
Result From Cash
Offering In Bonds

WASHINGTON, June 2.—Speedy oversubscription was recorded today as the treasury's books were closed on the latest cash offering of $1,000,000,000 in notes and bonds.

Secretary Morgenthau described the financing as "a great success."

"I am more than pleased," he said at a press conference after the books had been open only one business day. "They simply put the cash on the barrel-head and money talks louder than anything else."

The cabinet member would not estimate the amount of the oversubscription. Applications for either the $600,000,000 in 15-18 year 2% per cent bonds or $400,000,000 in five year 1% per cent notes mailed by last midnight were to be accepted.

The books for the separate conversion offering will remain open until midnight tomorrow.

The $2,050,754,400 total offering was the largest in peacetime history and carried record low interest rates.

May, A Month of Sunshine,

Columbiana county enjoyed in May the greatest amount of sunshine since October, 1935, according to the report submitted today by Lawrence H. Copeland of Millport, government weather observer.

June weather prevailed during May, Copeland reported, bringing 16 perfect days with clear skies and 14 days with a temperature above 80 degrees being recorded. The average amount of sunshine was 75 per cent.

LEGION PLANS
SCHOOL AWARDSMedals To Be Presented
To Eighth Grade Boys
And Girls

Details of the presentation of the American Legion school awards, made annually by Charles H. Carey post No. 56, were outlined at the regular meeting of the post Monday night.

The Legion will award a medal to a boy and a girl of the Junior High school, selected by school authorities. Two similar awards will be made at St. Paul's Catholic school.

Atty. Charles McCormick will award the bronze medals and certificates of award at the promotion exercises of the Junior High school Friday morning.

Arrangements for making the awards at the parochial school have not been completed, Legion officials said today.

The boy who will be selected shortly to receive the medal will be the student who best represents the qualities of character and ability, which, if cultivated, are calculated to result in better citizenship.

The girl's award will go to the one who best shows the qualities of courage, companionship, character, service and scholarship.

The medals now are on display in the window of Sonneck's jewelry store, East State st.

John Burns, commander of the local Legion post, will go to Lisbon Wednesday night to take charge of the medal presentation for the Lisbon Legionnaires in the Junior High school there.

Patient No. 2

COLLEGE PLACE, Wash., June 2.—Mrs. M. E. Ellis made splints and bandaged them on the broken leg of a young chicken, started to the basement with the chicken in her hand, fell and broke her own leg.

Johnson's victims were: His wife, Louetta, 41; daughters Rose Marie, 15; Elsie May, 10 and Marietta, 8, and a son, Walter, 12.

Meeting Horace and Wilbur with a shotgun at the door to their home late yesterday, the father shouted to them that he had just killed your mother, your three sisters and your brother; and asked: "Do you want to live, or do you want to go with them?"

The pair told Coroner Harris they expressed their desire to live. "You'll hear a shot," he was quoted, "then you can call the police."

Summoned aid, the boys found five bodies on three beds in the single bed chamber of the house.

On one, lay the mother, who recently had been ill. She had been choked and beaten on the head.

Marietta, Elsie May and Walter their throats slashed, lay on another bed, and Rose Marie, choked to death, was on the third. Johnson's body was nearby.

Police found this note: "This family, all but two boys, is wiped out and I intend to get them and then take my own life because x x x"—and here Johnson asserted he could not "take" the discord that marked his work "and all the rest."

Signing it "W. F. Johnson", he added a post script: "Rose Marie, 10:45 a. m. Monday; Walter at 11:45 a. m. Monday; Elsie May, 12 noon, Monday; Marietta, 12:15 p. m. Monday; I was 3:30 p. m. when Horace and Wilbur returned from school. Arthur, 21, who does not live at home, arrived a short time later."

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, June 2.—A determination to vote against passage of any tax bill was expressed today by senate Republicans attending a party conference on revenue legislation.

Senators attending the meeting said their strategy probably would be to support the finance committee compromise tax plan in preference to the house bill or any other proposal, and then vote against it ultimately.

Ask Curtailed Expenditures

They said their opposition to final approval, even of the compromise, was based on a belief that a tax bill is unnecessary, especially if a greater effort were made to curtail government expenditures. They also expressed a conviction that insufficient time had been allowed to work out details of a sound measure.

Earlier, the finance committee in a majority report estimated its compromise measure would produce $289,000,000 of permanent and temporary revenue in a year.

A finance subcommittee was meeting, meanwhile, to discuss a possibility of adding to the tax bill a provision for continuing the sugar quota law, amended in an effort to meet possible supreme court objections.

Sees No Tax on Sugar

Senator Couzens (R-Mich.), subcommittee member predicted, however that there would be no processing tax on sugar.

The finance committee majority report boosted treasury estimates of the bill's revenue yield, terming them "excessively conservative."

"This is $26,000,000 more than the house bill," the majority committee report said, "and will amply take care of the permanent revenue of $620,000,000 requested by the president and the temporary revenue for the next fiscal year."

President Roosevelt asked for $517,000,000 of temporary funds to be raised over two or three years.

Will Present Dance
Recital Two Nights

Miss Bettie Lee Kenneweg today announced preliminary plans for the presentation of her pupils in their annual dance recital on Thursday and Friday nights, June 11 and 12, at the High school auditorium.

The auditorium last year proved inadequate to seat the audience. As a result, Miss Kenneweg has split the program in half, presenting one half on Thursday night and the other half on Friday.

The costumes, Miss Kenneweg said, will be even more attractive than those of a year ago. Rehearsals have already been started and will continue at intervals until the recital.

Approximately 125 children will take part in the program during the two nights.

Seven Initiated
At Grange Meeting

The degree team, composed of young people of the grange, initiated a class of seven candidates in third and fourth degrees at the meeting of Guilford grange Saturday night.

The lecture hour was in charge of Mrs. Donald Pike, captain of the married women of the grange. The program closed a series of contests between young men and women and young married men and women of the grange.

The judges, Mrs. Lucinda Lodge and Clarence Crosser, gave the decision to the married women with second honors going to the young women. In two weeks the losers in the contest will entertain winners at a coverdinner.

Install Officers
At Eagles' Tonight

Nelson Hively will be installed president of the Salem aerie of Eagles at ceremonies in the Eagles home at 8 tonight. James Fitzgerald of Niles, past deputy, will be the installing officer.

The program also will include music, followed by a smoker. Five candidates will be initiated during the evening. H. W. Pealy, secretary, said today.

Ask Rural Pupils
To Register Early

Pupils from rural communities around Salem who intend to enter Salem High school next fall were asked today by Principal W. J. Springer to register at the school between 1 and 2 p. m. Friday.

The principal pointed out that it is to the advantage of both the pupil and the school to make registration early. The early registration applies only to prospective students from rural sections.

The principal's office is on the third floor of the High school building.

NOT EASILY PERSUADED

In an attempt to bring its military manpower in line with its vast armament program, Great Britain staged a nation wide recruiting drive. A Duff Cooper, minister of war, took the stump personally in the larger cities, pleading with youth to join the colors. Youth, however, refused to join in numbers sufficient to bring national defense forces to a satisfactory level.

In blaming the growth of pacifistic thought for the lack of zest for military service, Mr. Cooper probably has hit upon the main cause. But when he scores churches and other peace-minded groups for their preaching and calls upon them to denounce as heretics all who favor extreme pacifism, he is on slippery ground. Just as he will be if the cabinet introduces, as it is rumored it might, "peace-time conscription."

Doubtless even many peace-minded persons will concede there is a point below which national defense forces cannot fall without endangering the safety of the nation. But these persons and many others also will realize that once started the building of manpower, like that of armaments, is not likely to stop when minimum requirements are reached—even if there could be agreement upon what are minimum needs. Possibly Britain will have to find a way of persuading more youths to join the army and navy, but the almost unprecedented step of peacetime conscription easily could lead to a permanent policy of enforced military service.

Meanwhile, as Minister of War Cooper mulls over the problem, his most discouraging reflection must be that youth did not readily respond to drum beats, heart tearing posters and the evocative speeches of patriots. Pacifists have complained that the war propaganda machine has only to start moving to make peace-minded youth yearn to save humanity once more. British reluctance to succumb to war fever is upsetting their morbid confidence.

NOT SETTLED

The supreme court's 5 to 4 decision against the constitutionality of a New York law fixing minimum wages for women will not settle the issue.

State minimum wage laws first came before the court for an opinion in 1917. Due to the fact that Justice Brandeis did not participate in the decision, there was an equal 4 to 4 division.

Six years later, however, the court invalidated an act of congress fixing minimum wages for women in the District of Columbia. Justices McKenna, Sutherland, Van Devanter, McReynolds and Butler participated in the majority opinion. The last four, with Justice Roberts, were the majority in the New York case.

In spite of that decision and later ones, state minimum wage laws continued to be operative, with the cooperation of employers. In the last four years, eight states have enacted new minimum wage laws for women. Other states have revised their existing laws to get around the court's ruling.

The attorney general of Ohio, who believes this state's law is invalidated by Monday's decision, has reminded Ohio of its direct connection with the issue. The supreme court is narrowly divided. The question of the constitutionality of such legislation is by no means as clearly defined in the lay mind as most of the other recent questions which have been put to the court.

It seems reasonable to assume, therefore, that there has been no final settlement of the matter. The experiments which have been going on for two decades doubtless will continue, subject to the regularizing influence of judicial opinions but not prohibited by failure so far to frame a minimum wage law which can command the supreme court's approval.

THE STARS SAY

For Tuesday, June 2

The planetary configurations bearing rule on the affairs of this day seem to wield a rather devastating and disruptive force. There is likely to be a sudden change or upheaval, which may incite to travel or new associations. These should be managed judiciously, since there are signs of jealousy and suspicion. Be careful with property and labor.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a year of upsetting or disintegrating circumstances, which may call for a reorganization of the plans and may take one away from the accustomed fields or contacts. Be wise in such decisions, as there is menace of jealousy, and the revelation of secret enmities or sinister plans. Safeguard property and the fruit of labor. It is wise to look within for guidance of a spiritual nature, intuition or "hunches."

A child born on this day may be talented in out-of-the-ordinary channels, having studious, radical, mystical or curious tendencies.

For Wednesday, June 3

According to the lunar aspects, this should be a particularly lively and eventful day, with a definite move in the direction of stabilizing the fortunes and safeguarding the future. This may be through increased values in lands, tenancies and solid investments, or through the benefices of an elderly person by means of insurance, trust, investment or gift. Those whose birthday it is may anticipate an eventful year of advancement and gain, with the future prospects assured and the fortunes placed on solid ground through investments, real estate, gifts from elders, insurance, bequests or reward for diligence and fidelity.

A child born on this day may be studious, reserved, industrious and successful through its own efforts and wise investments, as well as through the friendly aid of elders and those in high position.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

NEW YORK, June 1—In the manner of Arnold Bennett's journal: At breakfast M. and I were discussing how an invalid so often dominates a household of healthy people. And I recalled how Diego Rivera, Mexican painter, plucked ants from plants at Theodore Dreiser's and ate them. And she swished from the table.

A letter from Governor Park recently asked me, along with other Missourians, to attend the Spring Festival at Excelsior Springs. Which recalls an experience at that pleasant resort years ago. My father had taken me there while he attended some political pow-wow.

I was sitting on one of the hotel verandahs and an elderly gentleman in the next chair was dozing. Awakening suddenly, he exclaimed: "There's a disaster somewhere." Next morning's papers told of the destructive cyclone that had struck St. Louis that same hour.

The Boston fire department sends a gold-plated badge embossed with my name. It entitles me, I presume, to gallop right up and help unwind the hose. One of my dreams has been coming down the ladder with a sleeping princess. Just as a flaming tower reels against the sky.

An established friend is a telegraph operator who took me under his wing when my journalistic pin feathers were sprouting. He is Lloyd Scholl out in Cincinnati, who became general manager of the Cincinnati branch and is now retired. When I was saving to buy the only girl a $185 engagement ring, he acted as banker. When I became a telegraph editor he saved my job many times by surreptitious notes to play up this story and that. When Ilsen died I sent out the flash under a dinky one column head: "Playwright Dies." Scholl in a shy nudge suggested an eight-column Page one streamer. I handled it that way. The editor, the late John Vandercook, was a worshipper of Ilsen's genius. I became for a week or so the fair-haired boy. Nella Webb writes servants are at a premium in London. All making munitions.

My friend Frank Vance has been laid up most of the winter with stone bruises. He calls them "Roosevelt gout." From Tahiti this scrawl in the morning post: "I'm doing a little beach combing number out here in a setting of corals and palms. Left Frisco with $800 and most of it has gone for cognac. This hen-track scribble is because you know my writing. I want to be forgotten." We were writing at the movies we could play the piano like movie actors. Hands hidden and never look down at the keyboards. Also lute playing with no fingering of strings.

Katharine Brush has been in a dither over a lady resembling her somewhat crashing parties and proclaiming herself Kay Brush. The imposter's relaxing metier is the fine bead which brings on much alcoholic braggadocio. Miss Brush is a shy, silken-voiced lady, inclined to blush at the compliment, and one who never discusses her literary work. There was once a spurious George Ade who cut a swath through the South. Other children should follow Shirley Temple and wear porcelain teeth when incisors fall out.

I heard Gelett Burgess declare over the radio that city folk didn't know how to kill a skunk. He says every country boy knows you can stone them to death if you work quickly. When they're angry or frightened, they are defenseless. I killed one once that was evidently neither angry nor frightened. Notations on a desk pad of several people I want to meet: John P. Marquand, Di Maggio, the diamond's new sensation, and Rose Wilder Lane. Harry Richman has discovered an expert whittler out in Chicago and sends me an intricate sample of his handiwork. There should be a whittling renaissance. It's the most absorbing of all concentrations. The confirmed whittler is never a worrier. And if I read the signs aright there's a heap of worrying going on about the world. Heaps and heaps!

Representative J. W. Martin, Jr.

Appointment of Representative Joseph W. Martin, Jr., of Massachusetts as floor manager at the Republican convention for Gov. Alf M. Landon was seen as an astute move on the part of Landon forces. Besides being an able politician, Martin is a close ally of Representative Bertrand Snell, permanent chairman of the convention, and would prove a valuable man in the position of eastern campaign manager for Landon if the latter were nominated. Political observers see in Martin an able aide to aggressive John Hamilton, Landon manager, who looms as the "Republican Farley."

HEALTH

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland
New York City

FOREIGN BODIES

Needles, toys, pins, nails and safety pins were never made to enter the human stomach. Yet for them to do so is a common occurrence.

Dr. Copeland

As a rule this accident occurs in children, but adults are guilty of putting in the mouth things that never belong there.

Of course, this is an almost inexcusable accident. But in the face of frequent warnings, the swallowing of foreign bodies continues to occur with alarming frequency.

This is a dangerous accident, particularly if the object is small and has pointed edges. When a pin or jagged object is swallowed it may tear and rupture the lining of the gullet, stomach or intestine. It may become lodged in the tissues and lead to a severe internal hemorrhage. At times, fortunately, objects may be swallowed without causing any harm or discomfort.

Instruments have been invented that make it possible for the physician to look into the throat, gullet or windpipe and even the stomach. By the use of these devices many lives have been spared and serious damage prevented by the safe removal of the offending substance.

Bad Example

Never place a pin or other object in your mouth. This is especially a bad thing for the mother to do, because it sets a bad example for the baby and young children. As you know, youngsters love to mimic their elders and if they see adults place pins and other objects in their mouths, they are almost sure to do the same thing.

The infant should never be allowed to play with objects so small that they can easily be swallowed. Pins, bones, marbles or small toys should never be permitted within reach of a young child. Older children should be taught that it is dangerous and unsanitary to put things in the mouth.

Often the mother notices that an object has disappeared and in the excitement is sure that the child has swallowed it. And, of course, merely because the child does not complain of pain is no sign that he has swallowed it. And, of course, To make sure whether or not, it has been swallowed, an x-ray examination should be made. This will accurately determine the location and size, and the probability of it doing harm.

If the object is caught in the throat, delay in obtaining medical attention may prove serious.

"THERE'S MURDER IN THE AIR"

by ROY CHANSLOR

CHAPTER XXXV

"We'll be back by nine in the morning," Tyler said. "I'm sure I'll sleep until then. I gave you a stiff dose. Poor child, she's under a terrific strain. She won't rest."

"But won't you be worried about leaving her all alone?" John demanded. Tyler shook his head.

"Worried?" he asked. "What's there to be worried about now?"

As they came out onto the porch, Tyler saw the car. He saw the car, containing Nelson, Harrison, Cooke and the other guards, around the side of the house. The men shouted good-bys, and the car went down the driveway and then headed toward the city.

Nat got out of Tyler's car. He looked up at the porch. They were good-nights. Then they were down the long driveway. Tyler spoke rapidly to Nat. Near the gate a figure appeared, swung a running-board. Without stopping, Nat slipped from under the steering-wheel. The figure was of Cooke, who took the wheel. Nat and Tyler silently dropped running-board.

The car turned in the direction of the others. Two men stepped out of the darkness. One was Nelson and Harrison. No one was spoken. Noiselessly they stepped off the gravel driveway and began to make their way back toward the dark cottage. Lights began to appear in the upstairs windows of the big house.

Reaching the cottage, the four men stepped into the dark living-room. No lights were turned on. Tyler whispered to Nelson: "You wait here. I'll go in." Then he went toward the stairs. Nat followed him. They mounted the steps, and in front of Ruth's door, Tyler opened it slowly, calling in a low voice: "Ruth, it's Nat."

"Father!" she said hoarsely. They went close to her quickly. He leaned over and took her hand, gently.

"Yes," she said.

He groped with her other hand and she found Nat's. Then she smiled gratefully. "I—I played," she said in a low vibrant voice. "And then it came: Murderous determination to strike—tonight—strike. Father—at me!"

Paul Gordon was deep in dream-sleep when the telephone rang. He stirred, then sat up. The phone—it was the same phone—tinkled lightly again. He reached for it.

"Mr. Gordon," said Tyler's voice. "Don't speak. Come at once to the cottage. Use your private stairs, and make no sound. Cross the garden in the shadows. And hurry."

Gordon heard the phone click with finality. He hung up, filled with bewilderment and alarm. Quickly he slipped into dressing-gown and slippers. Furtively he let himself into the hallway, tiptoed down the steps, closed the door behind him noiselessly.

He stared across at the cottage. It was totally in darkness. A shiver of apprehension passed through him. He shook it off. The voice had obviously been that of Tyler. There was nothing for him to do but obey its urgency.

He crept toward the cottage, careful to keep in the shadows. Near the door he glanced back at the big house. It too was in total darkness. He saw the door to the cottage open slightly, and stepped forward. Inside he heard Tyler's low voice, reassuring.

He could dimly make out several dark figures. He heard Tyler give a low-voiced order: "Nelson, you and Harrison cover the outside. Let anyone come in—but nobody go out. If there's any mix-up—you know what to do."

Astonished, Gordon heard Nelson's mumbled reply. The two men slipped into the garden. Gordon felt a firm pressure on his arm and then heard Nat's voice. Gordon started to ask questions, but Nat silenced him, warningly. They led him up the stairs.

As they entered Ruth's room, Tyler spoke to her softly, and she answered. Tyler whispered something to Nat, who drew his automatic and stepped noiselessly to the wall, just inside the door from the hallway.

Tyler took Gordon's arm and guided him to the shadows in the far corner of the room. "Stand by," he whispered. "And don't make a sound, no matter what happens, until I give the word!" Gordon, chilled, full of foreboding, crouched against the wall, waiting for he knew not what.

Tyler went swiftly to the side of Ruth's bed nearest the window. He dropped to one knee. His left hand held one of Ruth's, his right a heavy automatic. He turned his eyes toward the lightless house and the moonlight lawn. He saw nothing else.

Now that the moment was near, Ruth was unafraid. She tightened her hand in that of her father, and gave it a firm squeeze. From her mind she excluded every thought. For what seemed like eons she lay there, blankly.

Presently, almost without her realizing it, there was that sensation of light in her mind, as if that shutter had rolled back. Then she knew that the Unknown had made up its mind. Fear Ruth felt in that mind, a desperate fear, but a fear held firmly in leash by grim determination.

Very softly she whispered to her father: "Now—it is coming."

Again she felt her father's long fingers tighten. Then she was detached, waiting. She knew that a figure was letting itself out of the house, knew that it was feeling its way through the dark shadows, eyes on the cottage. She made one conscious effort to identify that figure—and felt her consciousness of it begin to recede. With an effort she cleared her mind of speculation.

And again she was inside that unknown mind. With it she stood in the shadows of the garden, near the house. With it she was wary, alert. There was a long moment of indecision, a moment in which fear almost got the upper hand, and caution almost stayed its purpose.

But fear and caution were conquered at last. With the Unknown, Ruth slipped from the shadows, stood in front of the door listening. Then the figure was at the door, was opening it very slowly, with-out sound.

Ruth gripped her father's hand. Tyler stiffened. He heard no sound for a long moment. Then, very faintly, he made out the soft pad of approaching footsteps. Just outside the door they ceased. There was an agony of waiting.

Then the door to the bedroom opened, inch by inch. He could just discern a dark shape there. Then the shape was moving almost noiselessly, toward the bed. Ruth, game to the end, was simulating the natural rhythmic breathing of sleep.

The dark form drew nearer. Tyler moved the muzzle of the automatic until it was on a line with the figure's breast. Then, very quietly, he said:

"Stand where you are, Mrs. Gordon!"

Nat pressed the switch, and the light flared on.

Carlotta, hair drawn back tightly from her pale brow, knotted at the back, stood there barefoot, in pajamas, a long thin knife clutched in her hand. She whirled and saw her husband staring at her in sick despair.

She gave one choked little cry then. The blade gleamed as she turned it toward her breast. Nat, dropping his gun, sprang toward her. But the knife had been driven up to the hilt. She swayed into his arms, went limp.

On her own bed in the big house, Nelson and Harrison laid the body of Carlotta Gaudio. At a sign from Johnson they stepped quietly from the room. The man who had spent the best years of his life in the service of Paul Gordon and his family looked down broodingly at the dead face. He bowed his head. In a moment he raised it. Gently he covered her with a sheet.

Downstairs, in the living-room, Paul Gordon sat slumped on the divan, his masklike face gray, only his deep-sunk eyes betraying his suffering. On either side of him, holding his nerveless hands, were Helene and Doris. In a chair at one side, unable to bear the sight of those tragic eyes, was David.

Nearly sat Ruth, her delicate face filled with sympathy. On the arm of her chair was Nat, his hand resting lightly on her arm but his eyes upon Doris. His back to the room, looking moodily out of the window, was Tyler. No word was spoken until the three men had returned from upstairs.

Tyler turned then, quietly motioned them to chairs. He looked at Gordon. "There are things to be done," he said gently. "Before I do them, I want you all to know the facts. We'll have the truth, at last." And then it will die—here with us."

The people in the room nodded. Gordon, by an effort, raised his head, met Tyler's eyes. For a moment Tyler hesitated. Then he drew in his breath. The thing must be got through with now. He spoke, quietly:

Blackmail Witness

Miss Margaret Flynn of Erie, Pa., former public stenographer in a New York hotel, is regarded as key witness in the district attorney's investigation into charges of Alfred E. Smith, Jr., that he was blackmailed. She is believed to have handled important letters for private detective Paul Krone who is being held.

Seek to Identify Black Legion "Higher Ups"

Ray Ernest being arraigned

Prosecutor McCrae

As authorities of midwestern states joined forces to smash the Black Legion and its sinister activities, additional information about the hooded order was disclosed by investigators. At Lansing, Mich., Ray Ernest, a state prison guard, was arraigned on charges of kidnapping and assault in connection with the subsequent death of Paul Every, a former prison guard. Arraignment proceedings are shown at the left, Ernest standing. Detroit authorities proceeded to fingerprint 12 alleged members of the Black Legion charged with the reported "execu-

"I'll tell the story as matter-of-factly as I can. First, when and how I learned the identity of Gaudio's inside ally. He flashed a look at Ruth, who had leaned back in her chair, her head partly against Nat's arm, her great dark eyes turned toward her father.

"Ruth told me," said Tyler, "although she didn't know it herself. This is how she did it: You'll remember every attempt made upon the members of this family. To my proof she could detect the malign influence, at least, she had no purpose in that mind which was plotting death and destruction."

"Yet when Mrs. Gordon disappeared, ostensibly kidnapped by Gaudio, Ruth knew nothing whatever about it until I myself told her! And just a little later she knew that danger again threatened Helene—knew it at the very moment that Gaudio's men were forcing their way into the sanitarium."

He paused, but no one spoke. Ruth merely nodded.

"Therefore," Tyler resumed, "I was convinced that Mrs. Gordon's disappearance was not part of Gaudio's vengeful plan. I was certain that she had disappeared of her own free will! And far as I was concerned, that branded her definitely as being in league with Gaudio. But I had no proof whatsoever, and not the shadow of a motive."

"Furthermore, I could not be sure that some one else was not aiding her, some one else who had access to the house and to its secrets. Then I learned that Doris had obtained from Collins the whereabouts of Helene, obtained this information only a short time before Helene was kidnapped."

"But Doris had previously tried to throw suspicion on Mrs. Gordon! And Mrs. Gordon, very subtly, while seeming to protect Doris, had planted a seed of suspicion against her in my mind—by a falsehood, by telling me that Helene in her delirium, had been deathly afraid—of Doris."

"Whether Doris was involved, or how, I didn't know. But I had to move carefully. Collins helped me. I arranged his 'disappearance', hoping that the conspirators would really believe us all drawn off the trail. I shall add, now, that Doris, of course, was not involved, that she obtained Helene's whereabouts innocently, for Mrs. Gordon, so that they could send Helene a surprise package of gifts. For Nelson's benefit. I shall also explain the seemingly strange behavior of Doris when she learned, through Ruth, that we had all gone to the Palm Gardens and that we were in danger."

He smiled at Nelson.

"Her first instinct was to rush to the Palm Gardens to try to warn us. You ran after her. She ran into the garage. Then she realized the futility of driving to the Palm Gardens, and instead telephoned, hoping to get one of us in time to warn us."

He smiled at Nelson.

Young Conquerors of an Old World

The young men and young women who will graduate this year will go forth to explore an old world that will be as new as Eden to them.

They will have much to learn, but in the years to come they will teach many lessons to their elders. They will discover new facts in an old world—facts that have been hidden from all other eyes since Genesis.

We welcome these young explorers and future conquerors. In practical business and financial matters we feel that we are in a position to give many of them sound guidance — and it will be a pleasure to do so at every opportunity.

Pittsburgh Pirates Have Received Scant Notice In National League To Date

Buccaneers, Who Open Second Home Stand Against Eastern Clubs Today, Are One of Three Teams In National League Above .500 Mark

By HUGH S. FULLERTON JR., Associated Press Sports Writer.

In a baseball season that already has proved rather remarkable in many ways—including the number of fans who have been drawn through the turnstiles by the uncertainties and general goodness of the early season contests—one of the minor surprises is the scant notice that generally has been paid to the performances of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

The Buccaneers, who open their second home stand against the National League's eastern clubs today following an afternoon on which no major league games were scheduled, are one of three clubs in their circuit with averages above the .500 mark. They haven't done much to set the world afire yet, with 21 victories against 20 defeats, but all things considered, it's surprising that they're in third place and still within easy striking distance of those embattled leaders, the Cardinals and Giants.

Against a seemingly mediocre average must be checked the facts that (1) Darrell (Cy) Blanton, the league's most effective pitcher in his freshman year last season, has been cuffed around with almost motonous regularity; (2) Lloyd Waner suffered a serious illness just before the season opened and made an unusually quick recovery to get back into harness; (3) Floyd (Arky) Vaughan, the 1935 batting champion, has been hitting only about .270 thus far and Lloyd Waner, Woody Jensen and Bud Hefey are even further down the batting list.

Weaver Improved

A large part of the Pirates' success can be attributed to the fact that Big Jim Weaver seems to have come into his own as a starting pitcher. The third man in the Bucco staff last year, Weaver has become the mound mainstay by recording six victories against two defeats this spring while Blanton has failed to pitch a complete game in 13 appearances on the mound and Bill Swift has finished only twice in eleven times out. With the aid of dependable relief, flung by Waite Hoyt and Guy Bush, Swift and Ralph Birkofer have managed to hold up their end however.

In place of Vaughan, Bill Brubaker, the third baseman who came up from Kansas City to take over Manager Pie Traynor's old job, has developed into one of the season's leading hitters with a .333 average at the last official report. Gus Suhr also is hitting well above the .300 mark as is Paul Waner although "Big Poison" hasn't been in there every day. Fred Schulte, acquired from Washington by the waiver route after L. Waner was stricken, also is around .320.

The first major league night game of the season scheduled to-night as the new East-West series opens. The Reds turn on their floodlights—brighter than ever—for a contest with the Phillies. The faltering Giants take on the Cubs; the Bees visit Pittsburgh and Brooklyn opens at St. Louis in the American league the Yankees test their bats against pitching, the Boston "Gold" Sox encounter Cleveland, winner of five straight at home, the Athletics, still experimenting with their pitchers, face the Tigers while the Senators meet the Browns.

HITTING BETTER IN ASSOCIATION

Many Improved Batting Averages After Games Yesterday

(By Associated Press)

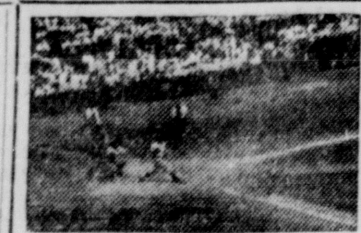

CHICAGO, June 2.—It may have been due to the bright night air or some other cause, but there were a lot of improved batting averages in the American association today.

In four games, three of them at night, Association sluggers hammered out 94 hits, good for 139 bases. The biggest showing was made at Indianapolis, where the Toledo Mud Hens whipped the Indians 14 to 9. Toledo slammed Bolen, Traut and Logan for 16 hits, while Cohen, who coasted in behind his batting support, gave the Indians 13. Carson led the Hens with a double, triple and single, while Ivy Shiver contributed four singles to Indianapolis' total.

Milwaukee protected its half-game margin over Kansas City in the battle for first place by turning 12 hits into a 5 to 1 victory over Minneapolis, while the Blues were trouncing St. Paul, 14 to 1. Joe Heving held Minneapolis to six hits and fanned six batters. Bernie Uhalt, with a double and two singles, paced the Brewer attack on Reg Grabowski and Ray Egan.

Kansas City made nine of its 13 hits in one inning, the third, to score 12 runs in its rout of the Saints. Fifteen Blues went to bat during the inning, producing six singles, two doubles and a triple, and were further aided by three walks. Marchand collected two doubles and a pair of singles to lead the Blues. Phil Page kept eight St. Paul hits apart and missed a shutout when his own error helped the Saints to their only run in the ninth.

With every member of the cast getting at least one hit, and Johnny Winsett accounting for four, Columbus crashed out of 19 hits in blistering Louisville, 13 to 1, in the only afternoon game. The Red Birds batted Dick Bass out of action in the first inning and continued their rampage at the expense of Hank Terry. Winsett led a home run, two doubles and a single, driving in four runs and scoring four more.

Amend Rules

CHICAGO, June 2.—Hereafter, there will be no technical knockouts marked up in the Illinois State Athletic commission book against a fighter who is forced by an eye injury to cease fighting while leading on points.

An amendment to the rules, adopted today at the suggestion of Commissioner George Getz, provides for a draw decision in such cases.

OAKLAND, Cal.—Federal research workers have established that the second unofficial aerial mail route in the United States was established between Emeryville and Oakland in February, 1902. The aviator carried 1,000 pieces of mail and dropped them near the post-office without landing.

PREP FOR OHIO GOLF TOURNEY

Star-Studded Field Has Been Lined Up For Amateur Event

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS, June 2.—The Ohio amateur golf tournament at Toledo Inverness is still two months away, being scheduled the week of Aug. 2, but already a star-studded field has been lined up to joust for the crown now held by Neil Ransick of Cincinnati.

Maurice McCarthy, Jr., of Cleveland, the 1934 champion, said today that "it is too early to tell whether I'll compete at Inverness," but outstanding golfers from all parts of the state have signified their intention to be there when the shooting starts.

Among the stellar performers certain to take a crack at the "silver pure" crown are Bobby Servis of Dayton, 1933 champion; Glen Bishop of Toledo, who won in 1930; Joe Wells of East Liverpool who has capped the laurels three times, and Jack Munro of Barberton, twice winner of the title.

Florio Missing

Missing from the field for the first time in years will be Johnny Florio of Columbus, who has jumped to the professional field. Florio will be in the pro-amateur event, however, which annually opens the week-long amateur tourney.

Ray T. Miller of the Inverness club, president of the Ohio Golfers association, said Toledo plans to put 125 golfers in the annual classic.

Eddie Meister, 1935 Cleveland district champion, will lead the sixth city's entrants if McCarthy decides to stay out, while about 10 others from that region are sure starters.

Bob Kepler of Dayton is another entrant due to create a furor in the ranks, while Miller, Bishop and Stranahan of Inverness, all playing over their home course, must be listed among the favorites.

The tournament program: Monday, Aug. 3: The state pro-amateur championship, open to any professional paired with any amateur eligible for state tourney.

Tuesday and Wednesday: 18-hole qualifying rounds for tourney. Low 32 for 36 holes enter medal play.

Thursday, Friday and Saturday: Match play in all flights.

OHIO AAU TRACK MEET SATURDAY

Attempts to Qualify For Olympic Team Will Be Made

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS, June 2.—Outstanding track competitors of Ohio and neighboring states will gather at Ohio State University Saturday for the state A. A. U. tournament, quarter-final qualifying round for selection of the American Olympic team.

Despite the absence of nine of Ohio State's flashiest performers, who are going to the central collegiate meet at Milwaukee Friday night, record-threateningers from universities, athletic clubs and high schools will be on hand.

A number of Ohio and Buckeye conference colleges have given notice of intention to enter full teams for the 24-team event program.

Among the men expected to bid for round-trip tickets to the Berlin games are Evans of Denison and Jack Keller, former Ohio State star, in the 110-meter hurdles. Keller is national high hurdles champion and was a member of the 1932 Olympic team.

Chinas Down Trades Class 4-3 For Fourth Victory In Class A Softball League

Defeat Fails to Bother Foremen's Position As League Leader; Baptists and Trinity Lutherans Win Class B League Contests

The last of the Class A softball league's undefeated clubs has finally succumbed.

Mullins Foremen, 1935 champions of the senior circuit, who had recorded five consecutive victories, were dropped from the unbeaten list by the Elks, 4-2, in one of the two Class A league games at Centennial park yesterday.

The defeat failed to disturb the Foremen's position as leader of the league but may cause them to tie for the first round championship since the Salem Chinas, who defeated the Trades class, 4-3, for their fourth victory yesterday, have lost but one game.

The Foremen have one more contest to play in the first round while the Chinas have two, one being a play-off of a tie with the Natural Gas Co. nine.

Hits were scarce yesterday with only 16 being made in both of the Class A league contests.

The Elks, who scored their four runs before giving the Foremen a chance to rally, collected only four hits from Pitcher Earl McNamee, who was well supported with brilliant fielding by his teammates. The foremen's two runs, scored in the sixth inning, were the result of three hits taken from Pitcher Dale Ritchie.

Hit Doubles

Jerome Kaiser of the Foremen and Bill Pauline of the Elks both hammered out two base hits during the contest.

Aided by two doubles by George Morris, the Chinas scored twice in the first inning and twice in the sixth to gain their victory over the Trades Class, who brought in one run in the first inning and two more during a desperate attempt to rally in the seventh.

Stallsmith started on the mound for the Chinas but was relieved in the second frame by Kasso. Combined, the two Pottery twirlers granted but four blows. Pitcher Bill Miller, who went the full route for the Trades, allowed only five hits.

The Baptists, defending champions of the Class B league, continued as the only unbeaten club in either of the city's circuits yesterday when they registered their sixth straight victory at the expense of the Columbians, 10-0.

Same Number of Hits

The Baptists' ten runs were scored on the same number of hits while the Columbians six runs were also tallied on a like number of blows. W. Bennet hurled for the Baptists while Fisher was in the box for the Columbians.

Bob Snyder of the Baptists led the hitting in the contest with two blows out of three trips to the plate, one a homer and the other a double.

Taking the lead early in the contest with one run in the first frame and five more in the second, the Trinity Lutherans defeated the Christians, 10-5, in the other Class B league game.

J. Wukotich pitched for the Trinity nine and allowed eight hits while Case and Stewart combined for the Christians and granted 13 blows.

Home runs were hit by Carlisle of the Trinity Lutherans and Kille of the Christians.

An attempt to exclude an alleged confession of the murder of his wife will be made by defense counsel for Guy Tallmadge when he goes on trial at Oregon, Ill. Theater Attractions

Two very modern, sophisticated movies make up a double bill at the State theater tonight and tomorrow. Carole Lombard, who heads the list of sophisticates, has the lead in "Love Before Breakfast" and Paul Cavanaugh, debonair and handsome, is seen in the other film, "Champagne Charlie."

"Love Before Breakfast" is a comedy hit with Miss Lombard, Preston Foster, Cesar Romero and Janet Beecher in the leading roles. The dialog is clever, with many humorous situations developing when Miss Lombard's sweetheart, Cesar Romero, goes to Japan for a two year stay. At the dock she meets Preston Foster, who madly pursues her through the rest of the film. Miss Beecher plays Miss Lombard's mother, who is very much in favor of Foster for a son-in-law because of his millions. The climax of the story comes during a storm at sea on Foster's palatial yacht.

The lovely new star, Helen Wood, plays opposite Paul Cavanaugh in "Champagne Charlie." The greater part of the story is devoted to the whirlwind love story of a gambler stranded at Monte Carlo and a headline heiress. At first Cavanaugh, as the gambler, is determined to win her because he is at the end of his resources. The impressionable girl is an easy victim to suave Champagne Charlie. Later he learns she is the daughter of a woman he once loved and lost. Disgusted with the role he has been playing, Cavanaugh is anxious to drop out of her life, but other gamblers who backed him will, he is afraid, harm the girl.

Cavanaugh is well cast as the fascinating gambler and wastrel who faces grave danger to save the happiness of this girl he has learned to love. Others in the cast are Herbert Mundin, Minna Gombell and Thomas Beck.

Col. Schwarzkopf Deposed As Head Of Jersey Police

(By Associated Press)

TRENTON, N. J., June 2.—Gov. Harold G. Hoffman capped his criticism of the Lindbergh kidnapping investigation by deposing Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf as superintendent of the New Jersey state police—a force he organized and led for 15 years.

The governor sent to the senate the name of Col. Mark O. Kimberling, state prison warden and once Schwarzkopf's deputy.

Kimberling was named to succeed the man who directed the police search which ended in the arrest, conviction and execution of Bruno Richard Hauptmann as the Lindbergh baby slayer. Kimberling supervised the execution.

Some observers believed strong sentiment in the state for Schwarzkopf's reappointment—evidenced by petitions from farm groups and women's clubs, and individual demands by private citizens—would lead to a senate fight against Kimberling's confirmation.

Administration supporting senators and the governor's own associates were confident, however, Kimberling would be confirmed. They said the governor had been assured that the necessary 11 votes before forwarding the appointment.
